A "tragedy" in Pittsburg was led up to by the discovery of two aces of diamonds in one pack. In a Pittsburg game, an error like this is fatal.

We hope the people on Mars will not mistake the demonstrations at Constantinople as a signal to them from us.

As for this proposal to increase the hours of daylight, it is obvious that it would be daylightful if it could only be done.

The value of a friendly spirit and a kindly manner were accurately appraised in the British House of Commons the other day, when Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, said, in discussing the foreign visits of the King, that "The King in his own person has the exceptional gift of conveying to the people abroad the impression of good-will and the good disposition of the British nation toward them; that is a great national asset." It is fitting that the attention of the world should be called to the worth of these qualities.

MOTHER CONGRESS CLOSES.

Rockford Chosen as Next Place of Meeting.

The tenth annual convention of the Illinois Congress of Mothers completed its work in Macomb Friday afternoon and adjourned. At the board meeting Rockford was chosen as the convention city next year and Charleston was selected as the meeting place for 1911. Some time ago the Illinois State Teachers' Association voted to give the Mothers' congress a place in the association, to be known as the parent teachers' section. The board appointed the following officers for this branch section: President, Mrs. Orville T. Bright, of Chicago; Vice President, Mrs. Samuel Bradt, of De Kalb; Secretary, Mrs. W. H. Browne, of Chicago. Executive Committee: Mrs. Alfred Bayless of Macomb, Mrs. Mary Page of Chicago, Mrs. S. J. Scott of Chicago. At the close of the board meeting the convention met as a whole to take up the revision of the by-laws and the transaction of other business. Several minor changes were made in the by-laws, the most important of which was the adding of a new committee to the congress. It is called the child hygiene committee and Dr. Lindsay Wynkoop, of Chicago, was appointed chairman of it.

WINS BY A MAJORITY OF ONE.

Recent Gives City Treasurership of Ottawa to Holloway.

Fred Holloway wins the city treasurership of Ottawa by one vote. At the last city election Thomas Kendrick, on the face of the returns, was elected treasurer over Holloway by eleven majority, but the council could not canvass the returns because the return sheet from the Sixth Ward was sealed in the bag with the ballots. The council was by mandamus ordered to seat Kendrick on the unofficial returns. An appeal was taken, but the council seated Kendrick, anyway, and afterward refused to accept his bond. Another petition for mandamus was filed asking for a count and seeking to compel the council to canvass the returns without the Sixth Ward and seat Holloway. A contest was agreed upon, the right of appeal being waived, and Judge Stough, on a recount, decided that Holloway was entitled to the office by one majority.

GAS FUMES KILL CAPITALIST.

Iowa Octogenarian Found Dead—Accident, Is Jury's Verdict.

B. H. A. Hiningsen, aged 82, a retired capitalist of Lyons, Iowa, was found dead in bed at the home of Mrs. Sara Boysen, 2734 Kenmore avenue. The room was found filled with gas, but there was no suspicion of suicide, and the verdict of the coroner's jury was death by accident. Hiningsen arrived in Chicago Friday morning, being an old friend of the Boysen family and on his annual spring visit. There is a combination gas and electric light fixture in the room in which Hiningsen was found, and Mrs. Boysen believes that Hiningsen may have opened the gas jet accidentally in extinguishing the electric lights. Hiningsen had a son and a grandson living in Lyons, who were notified of his death.

SLAIN AT BALL BY WOMAN.

Wife of Pavilion Owner Kills Ejected Man Who Threw Rocks.

Mrs. Lulu Moore Sunday afternoon fatally wounded Robert Bagshaw, of St. Louis, at Lake Bridge, a fishing resort near East St. Louis. Denied the privilege of waiting on the ground that they were intoxicated, three men left the resort and threw rocks at the dancers. Mrs. Moore, who is the wife of the proprietor of the resort, stepped out of the pavilion to warn the attacking party and was struck by one of the rocks. She responded with a shot from her revolver, which struck Bagshaw in the abdomen and fatally wounded him.

Because he threatened to kill her husband and 2-year-old child, Mrs. Hubert Burnett shot and probably fatally wounded her brother-in-law, Julian Burnett, in Harrisburg. Julian was in the act of stabbing Hubert Burnett, the husband, when Mrs. Burnett grabbed a pistol and shot him in the abdomen. She gave herself up to the sheriff, but was released by State's Attorney W. C. Kane.

Little Juliana Louise Emma Marie Wilhelmina will need only one of these names when she succeeds to the crown of Holland, but it is a good thing to have an extensive collection from which to make a choice.

BETRAYED BY TALK IN SLEEP.

Convict's Confession Clears Mystery in the Killing of Policeman.

From the lips of a convict in the Joliet penitentiary there came the other day a startling confession which clears the murder mystery of Policeman Robert J. Macanenny, who was shot and killed Nov. 16, 1907, at 634 street and Wentworth avenue, Chicago. The convict, James O'Neill, confessed to Captain P. D. O'Brien, chief of detectives, that it was he who killed the policeman. He had committed a burglary half an hour before, he said, and when he saw Macanenny he suspected that the policeman was going to stop him. Macanenny, who was in full uniform, was standing within 100 feet of his home. He spoke to the burglar, asking where he was going. In his right hand O'Neill clutched a revolver concealed in his overcoat pocket. He drew it and sent a bullet through the patrolman's heart.

COUNTIES CLASH OVER MURDER.

Madison and St. Clair Coroners Dispute Prosecution of Negro.

Neal Harris, a negro, is held in Madison County jail in connection with the killing of Charles Cheatham over a game of craps and it has not been discovered whether Madison County or St. Clair County will prosecute. The men were throwing the dice with the county line between them so that the approach of officers from either direction would enable them to transfer their operations to the unrepresented county. The Madison County Coroner viewed Cheatham's body which had fallen into St. Clair County, and refused responsibility. The St. Clair County Coroner said the negro was in Madison County jail and the case should be handled by Madison County.

Judge Francis M. Wright of the United States District Court in East St. Louis, rendered a decision in which the constitutionality of the employers' liability act was upheld. The question arose in a suit against the Terminal Railroad Association and attorneys for the defendant say the matter will be fought out to the Supreme Court of the United States. The decision is regarded by railroad attorneys and claimants for personal injury damages as important, as it eliminates the "fellow servant," "contributory negligence" and "assumed risk" pleas of the defense.
